MESSAGE

Dear Visitors,

There are now a total of three trade fairs produced in India by Hannover-based Deutsche Messe. These three events, staged at the Bangalore International Exhibition Centre, consist of:

- Industrial Automation INDIA - International Trade Fair for Process and Production Automation and Industrial Building Automation
- MDA INDIA - International Trade Fair for Motion, Drive and Automation
- CeMAT INDIA - International Trade Fair for Intralogistics

All three of these events incorporate key elements from the HANNOVER MESSE industrial exhibition, the world’s leading industrial technology showcase.

The idea for these events was born a little less than two years ago, when India agreed to be the official “Partner Country” at HANNOVER MESSE 2006. Of course, we already knew about India’s growing importance in global economy and many of our international clients themselves are active on the Indian subcontinent.

And there is naturally a huge visitor potential for any industrial exhibition staged right at “India’s doorstep”. You can therefore rightly expect an India premier with its own special flair! More than 400 domestic and 150 foreign exhibitors will present their mechanical and electrical engineering products and services on display over an exhibit space measuring 18,000 square metres.

We would be delighted to have you among our visitors from 4th till 7th December, 2007 in Bangalore!

A warm welcome from,

Deutsche Messe Hannover Fairs India

EXHIBITION SITE PLAN

ABOUT BANGALORE

PLACES OF INTEREST

Vidhana Soudha

Being the seat of the State Legislature of Karnataka, this imposing structure, in Neo- Dravidian style was built by Shri Kengal Hanumanthaiah between 1951-56, with granite entirely sourced from the city itself. Being the largest legislative building in the country, it also enhances the beauty of Bangalore.

Cubbon Park

A leisurely walk from Mahatma Gandhi Road will take you to one of two fascinating parks in the city - Cubbon Park. This much need lung-space in the heart of the city houses many elegant and classical buildings including the High Court of Karnataka. Established in 1870 by Major General Richard Sankey, the then Chief Engineer of the State, it was named after Sir Mark Cubbon, the longest serving Commissioner of Bangalore during the days of the Raj. It is spread over 250 acres of lush green area, fringed with vibrant flower beds, shady bowers and flowering trees.

Lalbagh Gardens

Rich in biodiversity, this 240 acres garden laid out by Haider Ali in 1740, is the other serene locale in the Southern parts of Bangalore. Lalbagh houses the beautiful Glass House that has played host to several visiting dignitaries besides showcasing the Annual Flower Show.

Bangalore Palace

Inspired by Windsor Castle, this Tudor-style, unique edifice, famous for its wood carvings and paintings, built in 1887 by Chamaraja Wodeyar comes as a pleasant surprise and takes you back to the Colonial era. This is quite an intriguing place worth exploring for a tourist. The Palace Grounds is a sought after venue for various exhibitions, concerts and cultural programmes.

ISKCON Temple

As a global project of International Society for Krishna Consciousness (ISKON) this Radhakrishna temple and cultural complex, built in Neo-classical style is set up on a 7 acre hillock. This is a major tourist attraction and spiritual centre and has visitors from all corners of the globe.
